A few words from Fr Joe

I have an older brother, Peter, he was 10 when I came along. We went to the same boarding school here in Dublin, Castleknock, even though he was long gone when I started. Recently he phoned me in great excitement, the Junior Cup Team were in the Leinster Final on Wednesday, something that happened in 1966 when he was a 16-year-old school boy, and to be honest not very often since. He was dying to come and see the match, support the team, meet old school mates and hear the familiar rugby chants again.

He contacted the school and secured a ticket, got an invite to the pre-match reception and travelled down in the glorious sunshine on Wednesday. I was delighted to meet him for lunch and drop him to Donnybrook, all dressed up in his past men's jacket and tie. He was so elated to reconnect with this very happy memory from his school days and share the moment now. The team were hammered, well done St Michael's, but he wasn't at all dejected. We sat over a mug of tea and he talked and talked about the people he met and shared so many memories. To be honest I had no idea at all that he carried, deep within his being, this reservoir of school boy experience, recalling teachers, priests, events, sports and the craic that school creates. It is one of those aspects of life that we might not often reflect on, how important our memories are. As we sat and chatted I was touched to get this insight into his formative years and to understand better that are childhood is always with us. School and our education occupy such a huge part of adolescence and while not always easy, it is really worthwhile to ensure for all our young people the best experience possible of these formative years. Thanks to all who contribute to the education of others.
